

Mark Thompson

Summary

Mark Thompson is a seasoned network engineer with over eight years of experience designing, implementing, and managing scalable network solutions for global enterprises. He specializes in Cisco and Juniper technologies and has a proven track record in reducing downtime and improving system resilience. Mark is known for his collaborative approach and ability to support both on-premise and hybrid infrastructures.